Reiteration (R) allows us to restate any proposition already in the proof within the main proof or a more deeply nested subproof. Reiteration allows us to reuse any assumptions, or propositions derived from assumptions, without having to introduce a new dependency with another assumption.

Figure 1: reiteration.png